

Name _____

Date _____ Hour _____

Wheels in Motion

In Act One, Ann Putnam comments, “There are wheels within wheels in this village and fires within fires.” She is implying that things are not as simple as they seem on the surface. The reference to a wheel, however, takes on special significance as the play progresses. Events seem to act as catalysts, setting in motion additional, worsening scenarios.

Directions: Think of a situation that fits this pattern and complete the diagram below to show the connection between three related events. Be sure to add details!

